INO PRESS.—The most wonderful of all modern institutions is the daily newspaper. It is a photograph of the shifting scenes of ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF THE the world taken fresh every day. It is the grand reservoir into which are poured the events great and small, which go to make up the sum of the world's history. It is the cheapest of all saleable articles. The man who flings it down with "Pooh! there's nothing in it," if he does not find the record of a particularly startling event, is guility of a piece of absurdity that cannot be surpassed. Let him reflect for a moment upon the enormous amount of labor necessary to prepare one single issue of the paper he so contemptuously casts asideof the outlay of money requisite to lay those bits of information before him-more, per haps, than he will expend in purchasing pa-pers in all his life. > Nashville Cotton Market. It is a generally admitted fact that the plan no dopted in Tobacce sales of selling at Auction, secring the privilege of rejecting the best hid if not satisfactory to the Planter, has given more atinfaction, and uniformly caused Produce to Sell Higher than Any Other Method, and believing that this will prove equally as satis-actory in Cottot: as Tobacco, Mesers. Smith, Parkes & Stark, of Nashville, Tennessee, have oncluded to adopt this plan. ITS ADVANTAGES ARE NUMEROUS It draws together all the buyers in this and nany other markets, the competition between whom insures the highest market price for each sale offered. Each bale is before the buyer, so that he can see its condition, with a sample fally drawn, showing its quality.

The owner either in person, or through his agent, has the right to reject the sale when the price is not satisfactory.

These advantages are secured to the Flanter with the same expense of selling as under the old system. The universal satisfaction given to all who have ever tested this system is proof that this is par excellence the best that can be had.
